

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Tēnā koutou, tēnā koutou, tēnā tatou katoa.

The conference organisers acknowledge the guidance and support of mana whenua - Kai Tahu iwi, and cultural advisor Amber Bridgman in shaping IFFTI 2023: Ara Honohono - Connecting Pathways to reflect our bicultural context here in Aotearoa New Zealand.

We thank the Otago Polytechnic Research Office for their support and acknowledge the helpful advice and guidance from IFFTI and in particular Tony Kent, Professor Robyn Healy and Surbhi Nijhawan. The conference organising committee provided valuable assistance at key stages leading up to and during the conference and post conference activities. We also thank Jean Hendry and Tourism New Zealand who funded the conference website and Louise Woodburn at Enterprise Dunedin for her advice and support. Conference graphics and branding were handled by final year design student Leroy Buxton, and Chris Sullivan at Seen in Dunedin was our official conference photographer. Both were a pleasure to work with. Tūhura Otago Museum proved to be an inspiring conference venue and we want to particularly acknowledge the Museum event team and IFFTI Committee members, Craig Scott and Moira White.

A huge thank you to our conference organiser Alison Copeman who kept us on track and provided invaluable conference experience and advice.

To our colleagues in fashion – thank you for sharing your research and practice so generously and for participating in this conference. To all those mentioned here and many others, kā mihi mahana for your contribution to IFFTI 2023.

The conference papers, posters, workshops and practice-based submissions could not have been presented without the consistent help and support of our committee members, reviewers and conference chairs. Our grateful thanks go to:
